

The great trip.

It begins the preparatory meeting of our Erasmus project.

The Erasmus project of my high school is called: "Back to the root, Back to the future".

And it's based on the consciousness of the European cultural heritage. Although in the trip of Greece there only went three teachers: Adrián, Itziar and Tomás, belonging to the Spanish group, the completed group it was composed of another three teachers of each country: Romania, Italy, Greece, Croatia and Turkey.

After visiting the high school, they participated in workshops about web 2.0 tools and how to promote entrepreneurship among young people. Next they visited monuments and archaeological deposits fields that are found on the list of the tangible inheritance of UNESCO, like the ancient theater of Filipolis and the marble deposits field of Tinian (near Kavala).

Kavala is a small city in the coast of North oriental Macedonia. The weather in Kavala is similar to Huelva, although it's more rainy so it's more green. The Greek teachers were their guides and we specially could underline the food like: Musaka, feta cheese,...

In conclusion we could say that this trip was exciting and it cheered up to participate in the next trip to Turkey.
